Preamble

1) Introduction

In the contemporary global environment, characterized by interconnectivity and rapid change, the function of public relations (PR) has evolved beyond conventional limits, establishing itself as a fundamental element of strategic communication, reputation management, and stakeholder engagement. The PR PG Diploma and Master's Program aims to provide aspiring professionals with in-depth knowledge, innovative competencies, and ethical frameworks necessary for leadership in the advancing domain of public relations. This program aspires to integrate theoretical insights with practical application, delivering a thorough comprehension of how communication influences perceptions, cultivates relationships, and generates societal impact. Through a combination of rigorous academic study and practical experiences, students will acquire the skills to tackle intricate communication challenges and devise inventive solutions.

A key focus of the program is the promotion of critical thinking, cultural awareness, and flexibility. Graduates will emerge as proficient communicators and strategic leaders, equipped to engage with diverse audiences, manage crises effectively, and contribute significantly to organizational objectives and public dialogue.

2) Aims and Objectives

PO1: Acquire theoretical understanding of the various phenomena arising out of content creation and dissemination across communication, journalism, media technologies and audiences.

PO2: Critically evaluate, in terms of the ethics and aesthetics, the range of activities involving creators to users/consumers of content.

PO3: Explore and understand the economics of content creation and dissemination across media technologies and audiences.

PO4: Take a review of research of the various phenomena involving content creation and dissemination.

PO5 : Explore, understand and acquire knowledge and skill in the range of activities involving communication, media and strategic communication.

PO6 : Apply the knowledge and skill in the creation and dissemination of content across media technologies and audiences.

3) Learning Outcomes

- a) Understand and apply foundational and advanced theories of communication and public relations in professional practice.
- b) Analyze and integrate interdisciplinary concepts to address complex communication challenges.
 - c) Conduct advanced qualitative and quantitative research to inform decisionmaking in public relations.

Cinema Studies

Studying cinema exposes students to various genres (drama, comedy, thriller, etc.) and filmmaking styles (realism, formalism, experimental). This exploration fosters creativity and expands students' understanding of narrative possibilities in media production. Cinema from different countries and cultures offers insights into global perspectives and diverse storytelling traditions. This understanding is valuable in today's interconnected media landscape. Films often provoke societal debates and influence public opinion. The course outlines to to study how films address social issues, challenge stereotypes, and advocate for change, contributing to discussions on media's role in society.

Dissertation (6 credits)

Every candidate registered for the Degree of MA (PR) shall be required to carry out research work for the thesis under the supervision and guidance of a recognized University teacher in Communication and Journalism or a research fellow registered for a PhD Degree in the Department of Communication and Journalism or individuals with a Master's Degree in Communication and Journalism/Mass Communication/Public Relations/Electronic Media and NET/SLET Qualification along with a minimum two years of teaching experience at post-graduate level in Journalism/Mass Communication/Public Relations/Electronic Media courses in a University recognized by the UGC. A research supervisor may not accept more than 15 research students in an academic year.

The research project shall be assigned within six weeks of the beginning of Semester III. Three typewritten copies of the thesis embodying the result of the research project together with the synopsis and a statement indicating to what extent the candidates work is original and to what extent it is referred to other sources, shall be submitted by the candidate to a Research Committee comprising a teacher registered with the Department of Communication Journalism, a research fellow registered for the Ph.D programme of the Department of Communication and Journalism and the supervisor chosen by the candidate. The topic of research shall be approved of by the Research Committee after a formal interview. If the topic is not approved by the Research Committee, then the Research Committee shall give a topic of research to the candidate. The candidate shall then submit a fresh proposal within one week of the interview.

Three typewritten copies of the thesis embodying the result of the research project together with the synopsis and a statement indicating to what extent the candidates work is original and to what extent it is referred to other sources, shall be submitted by the candidate, through the candidate's guiding teacher. The dissertation word count is about 20,000 words.

The thesis shall be the candidate's own work carried out under the guidance of her/his teacher and shall be submitted at the end of the Semester IV of attendance. The time limit for the submission of the thesis can be extended maximum up to the fifth semester, upon the payment of fresh fees of Rs. 5000/-. Extension of the limit will be based on recommendations from the Research Supervisor and approved by the Head. Before submission of the thesis every candidate will have to undergo a continuous evaluation process.

The evaluation process for the thesis: The dissertation evaluation shall be done twice before the final viva. In both situations the candidate shall be given the right to defend the thesis in case the evaluation is 'unsatisfactory'. There are 6 credits proposed for the dissertation. Of these, 2 credits will be from the continuous evaluation process. To get these credits the candidate must not get less than four 'satisfactory' remarks. The remaining 4 credits should be earned based on evaluation of the written dissertation (2 credits) and viva voce (2 credits) conducted by an external examiner and the supervisor. To get these 6 credits the candidate must not get less than six 'satisfactory' remarks. The thesis evaluation forms and research assessment are provided in Annexure 1 and Annexure 2.

Every candidate shall submit a certificate signed by the guiding teacher under whom he/she has worked stating that there is a prima facie case for the consideration of the thesis. Such a certificate shall be regarded as satisfying the Research Committee for the Department of Communication and Journalism.

The thesis shall be referred for examination and report to two referees, to be appointed by the Board of Examinations and Evaluation on the recommendations of the Research Committee, one of the referees being always the guiding teacher. After the viva –voce, the recommendations of the referees have to be included in the final submission copy of the thesis. The period for the inputs to be added in the final copy is two weeks from the viva-voce.

If at the time of the viva-voce, one of the referees rejects the thesis, while the other recommends it for the degree, the Research Committee shall in consultation with the Chairperson, Ad Hoc Board in Communication and Journalism, appoint a third referee who shall conduct an additional viva-voce of the candidate. The Research Committee upon receipt of the recommendations of the third referee, shall decide whether the thesis be accepted or not for the award of degree, after considering the reports of all the three referees.

If two of the referees reject the thesis, the viva-voce examination will not be conducted. The candidate may resubmit the thesis within one year from the date he/she is informed about the thesis being rejected. The candidate must pay fresh examination fees. If the candidate does not submit the thesis within this period or if his/her thesis is rejected again, he/she will not be granted readmission for the MA (PR) course.

The student must pass with a minimum of 40% in the internal assessment / continuous evaluation and with a minimum 40% in the semester end examination separately.

The grades to be awarded shall be decided by the referees valuing the thesis depending on the quality and the presentation of the research work, the performance of the candidate at the continuous evaluation and the performance at the viva-voce examination. If the research work included in the thesis is already published or accepted for publication in a peer reviewed journal, the candidate shall provide a proof of the same. Only such a candidate should be considered for O level grade. A mention of the grade so awarded shall be made in the results of the examination.

A thesis that has been rejected may be resubmitted again after due revision and payment of fresh examination fees. The revised thesis must be resubmitted within two semesters after rejections.

Dissertation Evaluation Form For Members of the Research Committee

Please evaluate the dissertation's different aspects using the following scale: unsatisfactory, satisfactory, good, very good, excellent.

The qualification of 'excellent' should only be given for a dissertation in the top two per cent of the research in the field of expertise. A rating of excellent may also be a reason for awarding 'with distinction'. A rating of very good should only be given for a dissertation in the top 10 per cent of the research in the field of expertise. Extra space has been given with each evaluation to allow for a more detailed explanation of your rating, which would be much appreciated.

Evaluation:	Indication of frequency	Indication of quality
Unsatisfactory
Satisfactory	20%
Good		Top 80%
Very Good	80%	Top 10%
Excellent		Top 2%

This evaluation will be made available to the learner and the Head of the Department. The learner shall be given the opportunity to defend in writing wherever the committee considers any part of the work 'unsatisfactory'. The committee may change its evaluation in the light of such defense by the learner. The written defense must be made within 15 days of receipt of the evaluation.

Criteria for evaluation of dissertation

Focus: relevance to research problem and argument. It is crucial that the research retains a focus on the stated research problem and the proposed argument. It should develop a clear sense of core arguments; establish their relationship to the question or research problem being posed, and to sustain a focused development of the argument throughout the thesis. For every paragraph of a thesis there should be an answer to the question: So what?

Reading: thorough and critical use of a wide range of literature and theories. It is necessary to clearly provide evidence of the range of literature, care taken in selecting the texts most relevant to the thesis topic, efforts made to find sources independently, attempts made to follow up references. It must also be clear that the student has a good understanding of the literature.

Research: adequacy of research design and execution, consistency of interpretation. Examiners will scrutinize the research design, its appropriateness for the thesis, and the adequacy of its execution. They will look for evidence of an appreciation of the range of different methodologies and of how the chosen research design suits the topic, as well as its possible limitations. It is also essential that the data generated and discussed are consistent with and support the arguments and interpretations put forward.

Argument: the presentation of a thesis and its reasoned defense. It is essential that a distinguished thesis takes up an independent position in relation to the relevant literature on the topic. The thesis must clearly demonstrate a depth and breadth beyond merely a literature review to establish a clear relation between the literature and the research, drawing conclusions and making connections not immediately evident in the existing literature itself. It must pursue analysis in addition to description, and the production of a line of reasoning going beyond mere reading and a descriptive account of data (where relevant). In other words, the thesis must present a coherently organized argument. The thesis must clearly identify a formulated position/s on the topic, support these with arguments, deal with arguments against as well as for it, and arrive at some sort of conclusion. This is particularly important in a thesis because by definition a thesis needs to actually have a "thesis"!

Presentation: competence in mechanics of essay writing and expression. Spelling, grammar, correct use of citations and construction of a bibliography must be impeccable. The bibliography must accurately represent all sources and reading. Material contained in tables or graphs must be clearly and adequately presented, and sources provided. The thesis must conform to the APA style for referencing, citations and bibliography. It must follow the guidelines laid down by the UGC for PhD Thesis writing. The quality of expression is also very important. The thesis must structure and organize the topic well. The thesis must have: coherence: successive sentences should relate to each other, as should successive sections of the essay, and the grammar should make sense, and unity: everything should be clearly related to thesis topic and to the propositions discussed. The thesis must be structured in an appropriate academic style, containing those sub-sections required to organize the material with suitable sub-headings to signify the progression and structure of its arguments. The contents page must correspondingly give a clear indication of the structure of the thesis.

The thesis must be more than a collection of manuscripts. All components must be integrated into a cohesive unit with a logical progression from one section/chapter to the next. In order to ensure that the thesis has continuity, connecting texts that provide logical "bridges" between different sections/chapters are recommended.

Assessment: The qualification of 'excellent' should only be given for a dissertation in the top two per cent of the research in the field of expertise. A rating of excellent may also be a reason for awarding 'with distinction'. A rating of very good should only be given for a dissertation in the top 10 per cent of the research in the field of expertise.
