Certificate Course in Deciphering and Studying Historical Persian Documents and Manuscripts of India (Aligned with NEP 2020 Guidelines)

Persian Manuscripts: Your Key to Understanding Medieval India!

The Certificate Course in Deciphering and Studying Historical Persian Documents and Manuscripts of India is designed to introduce participants to the rich archival and literary heritage of Persian-language texts produced in the Indian subcontinent. This course explores the historical, cultural, and linguistic significance of administrative records, legal documents, royal decrees (farmāns), letters, chronicles, and literary manuscripts written in Persian. Emphasis will be placed on developing foundational Persian language skills, with special attention to paleography, vocabulary, and grammar essential for reading and interpreting historical texts. The course will also train students to identify different styles of handwriting, manuscript conventions, and terminologies commonly used in Indo-Persian documentation. This course is ideal for historians, archivists, researchers, students of Indo-Persian culture, and enthusiasts seeking to engage directly with primary sources and explore the intellectual and bureaucratic legacy of Persian in Indian history.
